The Eastern Junior Alliance (EJA) is the South East Of England's leading youth development football league, for age levels U13 to U18. The stepping stone between regular youth to the academy levels of the professional ranks. Spread over 10 counties in the South of England with approximately 70 clubs and 175 teams, the EJA gives youth players the chance to progress their game to a better level on and off the pitch: With higher standards of coaching, behaviour and conduct, by teaching youth players what to expect, and what will be expected of them in their future football careers. Only clubs of step 5 and above qualify to compete in this league. Statistics show that those sides who use the EJA league in their own development plan progress better and many players eventually progress into first team squads and quite often a lot higher too.
